ZERO DOLLAR LAPTOP

Workshop 7.
Working with and Sharing Audio and Video

Overview - what this workshop covers

Date: 4 March 2010	Time: 10.30am-1pm / 2.00pm-4.30pm
Context: Continuing from the previous week's session. Media files created by internet users are an increasingly important part of social networking websites and the internet in general. Video editing is probably the most challenging activity in this set of sessions. Looking at how people around the world are using social utilities like Youtube, Vimeo and Myspace to share ideas and media Workshop to generate audio or video content for sharing online- continuing the themes in previous workshop	Learning Objectives: How to begin to edit audio and video files. How to upload audio and video to the web. It is hoped that participants will wish to learn to edit their own mobile phone videos. How to get the most out of sharing audio and video content on the web.
Notes: We understand that this activity will not be for everyone. Alternative activities such as C.V. writing will be provided by the tutors.	Resources: Example video and audio files will be provided by the tutor. Fact sheet (supplied by tutor) containing lesson notes and useful websites.

Conclusion - what this workshop will teach us to do

•From mobile phone to Youtube – the process of taking mobile phone video, editing it and uploading it to Youtube.

•Any activities participants wish to continue from the previous session.
